

Broomfield, Colorado

Pike's Peak to the south, Mount Evans to the west, Long's Peak to the northwest and the vast plains on the east bound the area which has become known as Broomfield. Born in the latter quarter of the Nineteenth Century, Broomfield began as an agrarian community, with hard-working, community-oriented families who located here on the heels of those adventurous gold-seekers seeking their fortunes and hoping to strike gold in Colorado's wilderness. Broomfield is only a few hours away from the wilderness of Colorado, with a wide variety of seasonal activities such as hiking, mountain biking, rafting, skiing, snowshoeing, fishing, hunting, camping and much more. Closer to home, Broomfield is located only 9 miles from Boulder, and 20 miles from downtown Denver.

Broomfield looks forward to expanding retail operations, holding multiple social and cultural activities and building a solid economic base in the high-tech industry. On November 15, 2001, Broomfield officially became the state's newest county – The City and County of Broomfield. Broomfield's April, 2007, estimated population is 52,312. The City spans 33.6 square miles with 5,383 developed acres, 6,289 acres of parks and open lands and over 100 miles of trails.

Broomfield Parks and Recreation Mission Statement
